Moderation Policy

Moderation Guidelines

Quicker is maintained and moderated by our dedicated team. Our goal is to ensure a constructive, respectful, and encouraging environment where everyone feels comfortable sharing their insights without fear of harassment or disparagement.

Every piece of content is meticulously reviewed by our moderation team either before it appears on our platform or immediately after submission.

Initially, this means there might be a delay in your content becoming visible as it awaits moderator approval. Additionally, we hold the authority to modify or delete any content at our discretion once it's been submitted to our platform.

Community Principles

Approach your contributions with a positive mindset. This platform is designed for you to offer constructive feedback and suggestions, not to air grievances about Quicker, its employees, or unrelated matters.

Maintaining respect for others' opinions is crucial, even when they differ from your own. Focus your comments on the topic at hand, avoiding personal attacks.

Respond with consideration and kindness. It's fine to disagree with someone's opinion, but do so respectfully and explain your reasoning.

Being well-informed is beneficial. Take the time to read through the site's content and others' comments before adding your feedback. Doing additional research is encouraged to foster informed and dynamic discussions.

Participation Regulations

Comments must adhere to the following guidelines:

- Avoid personal attacks against other participants or Quicker staff.
- Refrain from sharing personal details about others, including names, addresses, or places of employment, if not publicly disclosed on this platform.
- Offensive language, profanity, or defamatory remarks are strictly prohibited.
- Comments should not discriminate based on gender, race, religion, culture, sexual orientation, appearance, or background.
- Do not post links to advertisements, illicit materials, or illegal content.
- Duplicate posting is unnecessary. After making your point, please do not repost the same comment. We will remove spam.
- Comments failing to meet these standards, or deemed inappropriate by our moderators, may be edited or withheld from posting.

If your comment is edited or not posted, we will notify you via email, specifying the reason for the action taken.

Repeated violations of these rules may lead to the suspension or termination of your account.

Technical Assistance

Quicker is operated by a dedicated team. For technical support or inquiries, please reach out to us via email at support@quicker.com.au.